No city fraud: Manager

Millions in purchase orders filed electronically were overlooked, Tobert says

While the city manager found no evidence of fraud and was able to account for nearly a billion dollars in city spending, council has voted to bring in an external auditor.

Owen Tobert said that the more than $700 million in purchase orders, which the city auditor claimed was unaccounted for, was merely documented electronically rather than on paper.

"I find it absolutely shocking that an auditor would go and miss the extensive work that has gone through in electronic files," said Mayor Dave Bronconnier. "Most every outlet today uses electronics, including the City of Calgary."

Tobert said the auditors overlooked the electronic files and that they had never asked to see them.

"We don't prevent them from accessing anything they want to see. This is their audit, not our work," he said.

His report, which was compiled by city administration in the last two weeks, was able to account for all but $4.8 million. This is the reason for bringing in the city's external auditor, Deloitte, said Tobert.

"Just don't take my word for it, let's bring another expert in and conclude what is happening or what is not happening," he said.

Ald. Ric McIver was one of only two aldermen to vote against accepting the report, but said he believed having a third-party review was a good idea.

"There's four to five million dollars worth of questions that still need to be answered," he said.

While most of the money has been accounted for, Bronconnier said: "I think it's truly unfortunate that it has taken this long to catch up with the facts."

Tobert said the city administration has already begun to implement the 13 recommendations in the city auditor's report to improve their procurement processes.

The Alberta government is implementing guidelines to help its employees navigate social media.

Twitter training in store for provincial government workers

SOCIAL MEDIA Here's one suggestion as Alberta government employees get ready for Twitter training to help them navigate the new social media: Don't write tweets under the heading, "Stuff My Premier Says."

Because while the Internet might be awash in the candid ramblings of any number of curmudgeons, pundits or tweet-savvy sages, those who work for Premier Ed Stelmach will be expected to be, well, more discreet.

"There is a big role for social media in communication and we want to take advantage of that," said Tom Olsen, director of new media and Internet for the Alberta government.

However, Olsen said it's important that guidelines be implemented showing workers how they should conduct themselves.

"We're still government and there are issues to keep in mind," he said. "Issues like privacy, issues like tone."

During Stelmach's leadership review, he promised to do a better job communicating with the public, including using social media.

Since then, several government Twitter and Facebook accounts, as well as blogs, have started up.

Review of 911 service welcomed

DISPATCH Mayor Dave Bronconnier requested a review of the city's 911 service yesterday, and the man behind the appeal for changes says he couldn't be happier.

John Dooks, president of the Calgary Police Association, wrote a letter earlier this week to the police chief, police commission and mayor, raising concerns about "chronic safety issues" at the Public Safety Communications centre.

"I'm not surprised he asked for a review and I am very pleased and excited he did it so quickly. I know the mayor and the police chief hold the safety of our officers and the public as the highest priority," Dooks said.

Most recently, Dooks highlighted the fact that it took paramedics at least 13 minutes last week to reach the downtown Calgary office where an officer was stabbed, after 911 dispatchers struggled to confirm the exact address.

The PSC centre was created by merging police, fire and ambulance dispatch systems in 2006, and dispatchers handle all emergency and non-emergency calls in Calgary.

Cancer board revival urged

KRISTA SYLVESTER
krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

Friends of Medicare and the Alberta Liberals are calling on the provincial government to bring back the Alberta Cancer Board.

Liberal health critic Kevin Taft said with the Tom Baker Cancer Centre in Calgary turning away patients, along with the Cross Cancer Institute in Edmonton, it's time to revive the Alberta Cancer Board.

"Cancer is an illness that will touch virtually every Albertan at some point in their lives, and the current hardship that is being experienced by patients who can't get the care they need is heartbreaking," Taft said.

Health Minister Gene Zwozdesky said he is working towards creating solutions for the two main problems plaguing cancer doctors in the province: Limited space and the consolidation of all four pillars of cancer care — cancer services, research, teaching and training — into one area.

"The vehicle of how that is done isn't as important as the product. We need to create the solutions, albeit through a different mechanism," Zwozdesky said.

Taft blames the dissolution of the Alberta Cancer Board for those issues, and Friends of Medicare executive director David Eggen agrees.

"I would support bringing back the board because I think we need people on the ground that are experienced and able to make the right decisions," Eggen said.

Public tips lead to two arrests in pot bust: Cops

KRISTA SYLVESTER
krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

DRUGS Police were able to arrest an alleged drug dealer and supplier thanks to information from the public, officials say.

Staff Sgt. Mark Hatchette said police were led to the suspected supplier rather quickly after arresting a first man June 2 in the 1700 block of 43 Street NW, when they seized drugs and cash. Officials say that arrest led to a search on two homes, where police found a sophisticated marijuana operation.

"It's significant because you've got so many different types of drugs going to so many different addicts, so it's really good to get that off the street," Hatchette said.

Seized by police

- 16.7 grams of crack cocaine
- Almost 50 OxyContin pills
- Over $400,000 in pot
- Numerous knives, money and cellphones

David Jaworowski, 21, is facing numerous charges including possession of crack for the purpose of trafficking, possession of cocaine for the purpose of trafficking and eight counts of possession of a weapon for a dangerous purpose.

Hung Van Tran, 46, is facing numerous charges including two counts of theft of electricity under $5,000 and possession of marijuana for the purpose of trafficking.

Stewart to join race for mayor's seat

POLITICS Declaring himself a man for the people, the city got a glimpse at mayoral candidate number 10 yesterday morning,

Wayne Stewart announced his bid at the Lougheed House in front of family and supporters and he pledged to continue to move Calgary forward.

"Calgary is a great city, but we cannot rest on our laurels. We must move forward or we will fall behind," he said.

Stewart began his career in the oil and gas sector but has more recently served with the Calgary Foundation, HomeFront and the Calgary Homeless Foundation.

"Some of my most important work has been to change the way we think about people who are outside the mainstream. There's still a lot more to do."

Stewart vowed his first act as mayor would be to conduct an independent review into the way the city does business.

Checking triples injury risk for peewee players: Study

HOCKEY Bodychecking more than triples the risk of injury and concussion in peewee hockey, according to a study conducted by the University of Calgary.

Researchers compared rates of injury between peewee teams in Alberta and Quebec. Bodychecking is allowed at the peewee level in Alberta but not in Quebec. Peewee hockey players are 11 and 12 years old.

The study was conducted during the 2007-08 season on 74 boys teams from Alberta (1,108 players) and 76 from Quebec (1,046 players). There were 209 injuries in Alberta compared to 70 in Quebec, according to the study. In a breakdown of injury types, the study determined that there were 73 severe injuries and concussions in Alberta versus 20 in Quebec. A total of 14 severe concussions occurred in Alberta to four in Quebec.

Quebec introduces bodychecking at the bantam level when players are 13 and 14.

"It's certainly shown that playing in a peewee league where bodychecking is permitted is associated with a more than three-fold increased risk of injury, concussion, severe injury, severe concussion compared to a league where bodychecking is not permitted at the same level of play," says lead researcher Carolyn Emery of the University of Calgary.

Calgary experienced a jump in housing starts over last year, but the CMHC expects that to cool off a little in the latter part of 2010.

'A healthy sign'

Housing starts up in Calgary, according to CMHC

KRISTA SYLVESTER
krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

For the ninth month in a row housing starts in the Calgary area have been on the rise, according to numbers released by the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Senior analyst Richard Cho said total housing starts reached 862 units in May, which was almost 80 per cent up from the previous year of 480 units.

To the end of May, total housing starts have climbed to 3,932 for 2010, from 1,547 units in 2009.

"It's a welcome sign and it's really good news for the economy.

"But we have to remember we're comparing with a time last year that was a lot weaker than this year," Cho said.

"But it's a healthy sign."

Cho said while the news is showing signs of recovery, he expects overall housing starts may slow down a bit for the rest of the year, but adds it's not a cause for concern.

"Although the gain after five months has been impressive, the rate of increase is expected to moderate over the balance of the year due to higher mortgage rates and rising inventories."

Council debates secondary suites

KATIE TURNER
for Metro Calgary

While council approved a motion for more secondary suites in the city, the decision will have little impact, according to one alderman.

Ald. Ric McIver, with the support of aldermen Stevenson and Lowe, put forward a motion asking for city council to create a more definitive policy on the development of secondary suites.

The motion was amended, however, and council voted to allow secondary suites in all residential categories except for single-family homes.

"There's no protection there, nor any secondary suites allowed there without individual public hearings for every single address," said McIver.

Mayoral candidate Naheed Nenshi presented his own policy to council on Monday, which he said would allow for the development of secondary suites in all neighbourhoods, granted they meet a few criteria.

"This is a simple answer, and every other major city in Canada has done this already," said Nenshi.

Calgary Transit and Crime Stoppers unveiled a partnership wrap on a city bus yesterday, urging Calgarians to text in crime tips.

Texting tips

JESSICA PICHE
For Metro Calgary

Texting is the latest crime-fighting weapon.

Crime Stoppers has partnered with Calgary Transit and Calgary police to increase awareness of their Talk-Text-Type initiative. Citizens are now able to text tips to Crime Stoppers in conjunction with web and phone alerts.

A new city bus wrapped in red and black will be dispatched on various city routes, increasing visibility of the program. Instructions on how to use the system are clearly displayed on the side and back.

"We are getting a lot of positive feedback from the public," said Neil McKendrick, manager of transit planning. "It's been effective in getting attention."

The unveiling of the bus coincided with a Crime Stoppers reenactment filming of the vandalism of the Martindale skating rink.

Kelly Jones, Martindale Community Association vice-president, said some of the new immigrants to Calgary are often hesitant to contact police. He believes the choice to text will increase anonymous tipping.

Bottled Messages
Special Report

The long arm of Tory message control has reached around the world in an attempt to orchestrate virtually every public utterance by seasoned diplomats, from Britain to Bangladesh, an investigation by The Canadian Press concludes.

The secret to this unprecedented attempt to stage-manage Canada's most experienced high commissioners, ambassadors and diplomats is the Message Event Proposal — a finely developed information tool aimed at giving the Prime Minister's Office total control over communication.

MEPs obtained under the Access to Information Act reveal how Stephen Harper's office has employed the device to micromanage Canadian diplomacy in the United States, the United Kingdom, continental Europe, Asia and Africa.

Even the most able and trusted of Canada's foreign service officers have been subjected to strict controls by the PMO through its public service arm, the Privy Council Office. "There's no question it has a bit of a chilling effect on people, because they know that they have to avoid being off-message at all — and that's what the government wants," said one currently serving diplomat who spoke on condition of anonymity. A PCO spokeswoman has defended the government's use of MEPs, saying they are a tool for communication. The Prime Minister's Office has declined comment. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa defends $2M 'pavilion'

The Conservative government scrambled yesterday to mount a furious defence of its G8/G20 summit planning to douse escalating opposition attacks on the enormous cost of hosting the international gatherings.

Those attacks were threatening to swamp the substance of what the government wants to achieve at the summits while endangering the Conservatives' hard-won reputation for economic management.

The opposition barbs were built around a decision to construct an artificial reflecting pool in the media centre in Toronto during the upcoming G8 and G20 summits.

The government hastily assembled reporters from every news organization on Parliament Hill yesterday to present a bid to defend the marketing pavilion.

"Our government will not apologize for marketing and promoting Canada to the entire world," said Dimitri Soudas, Harper's director of communications.

"This is a classic attempt for us to try and market the country."
Prime Minister Stephen Harper

In the House of Commons, the prime minister made a similar pitch, refuting accusations that he was spending $2 million on a fake lake. "In fact, Mr. Speaker, what there is, is a $2-million marketing pavilion," Harper said.

"There are thousands of visitors from around the world. This is a classic attempt for us to try and market the country."

U.S. Senators looking to crack down on prepaid cellphones

Alarmed by the use of hard-to-track prepaid cellphones by terror suspects, two U.S. senators have introduced legislation requiring consumers to produce identification before buying such phones. Chuck Schumer, a Democrat, and John Cornyn, a Republican, are hoping to schedule hearings on the bill through the Judiciary Committee. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Yahoo signs Beckham

Yahoo Inc. said it signed British soccer star David Beckham as a brand ambassador ahead of the World Cup tournament in a move to draw more users to the online media company's products. Under the deal announced yesterday, Beckham will be featured on Yahoo websites and products exclusively before and after the World Cup, which begins in South Africa on Friday, as well as in company marketing. Financial terms of the deal were not disclosed. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Obama talks tough

U.S. President Barack Obama says his talks with Gulf fishermen and oil spill experts are not an academic exercise. It's "so I know whose ass to kick."

One target for the presidential foot: Tony Hayward, the embattled chief executive of BP PLC. Obama was asked by NBC Today show host Matt Lauer about Hayward's past comments that "I want my life back," that the Gulf was "a big ocean" and that "the environmental impact of this disaster is likely to be very, very modest."

"He wouldn't be working for me after any of those statements," Obama said, according to excerpts released by NBC.

The interview aired yesterday. It was part of a stepped up White House effort to show that Obama is actively engaged in dealing with the worst oil spill in U.S. history. In the interview, he strongly defended his role in dealing with the crisis, including his three visits to the region since the spill began. Obama said he has talked to a variety of "experts" on the oil spill in addition to the fishermen.

Barely treading water

TheWestView

This is the first time I've ever agreed with Chief Bloc Head Gilles Duceppe.

The indoor fake lake planned for the G8 summit in a Toronto media centre — right next to Lake Ontario — is indeed "one of the funniest things I've ever heard."

The only thing funnier was that photograph of Canada's national separatist wearing a shower cap at a cheese factory during the 1997 federal election. But I digress.

The fact that you and I are paying $2 million for the lake by the lake (complete with Muskoka chairs) as an amenity for international journalists who may be intimidated by a real lake and need to stay indoors is not so funny.

Nor is the estimated $2-billion price tag for both the G20 in Toronto and the G8 in the real Muskoka. That's a lot of money for a meeting (well, two meetings). Haven't these world leaders ever heard of Skype?

Especially when the meeting is about how to get out of the global financial glue. They should all be eating cheese sandwiches on park benches in Allan Gardens. The simple truth is they can't afford any more. The U.S. national debt alone is north of $13 trillion, which is 90 per cent of its GDP. Do you have any idea how much a trillion dollars is? Neither do I, but to go through it we'd have to spend $1 every second for the next 31,000 years.

"Maybe the fake lake is an appropriate symbol after all. We're all under water. And we have no idea how to get our heads back above the water line."

Or we could just get the U.S. government to do it for us: Washington will spend $1.6 trillion more than it makes in just one year.

Canada's national debt is more modest — a mere $527.5 billion (and counting) but isn't it bad form for a bunch of bankrupt oligarchs to be throwing around the peasants' money on fake lakes when they should all be sent to bed without their suppers and no allowance for an entire month?

I realize the lion's share of the cost for the G8/G20 blowout is for security. Someone could fall into the fake lake, never mind the real one right next to it. But the Harper administration is sparing no expense to talk about the worst financial crisis since the Great Depression.

Maybe the fake lake is an appropriate symbol after all. We're all under water. And we have no idea how to get our heads back above the water line. Washington, for example, has started taking online donations. I kid you not: Check this out: www.pay.gov/paygov/forms/formInstance.html?agencyFormId=23779454.

Here in Canada, the Harper government doesn't bother to ask. It's enough to make a separatist smile.

Worth mentioning

Canada ranks 14th in global peace index

Canada is 14th among 149 nations in the fourth annual Global Peace Index issued by the British-based Institute for Economics and Peace.

The think-tank says the world is a less peaceful place this year, largely due to a rise in crime and civil unrest fuelled by the global financial crisis.

But the London institute also says the risk of outright armed conflict appears to be falling.

The index is based on 23 indicators, ranging from military expenditure to relations with neighbouring countries and levels of violent crime.

New Zealand earned the top spot in the index for a second straight year and is one of only three countries in the top 10 to improve in peacefulness in the 2010 index. Iceland moved into the second spot, followed by Japan, Austria, Norway and Ireland. Iraq is 149th and last, just below Somalia and Afghanistan, and the United States was 85th.

$7T

The institute estimates violence is costing the global economy $7 trillion per year. It says a 25 per cent reduction in violence would save about $1.7 trillion per year, enough to pay off Greece's debt and help the European Union reach its 2020 climate and carbon goals.

The annual report says South Asia saw the greatest drop in peacefulness, largely due to increased involvement in conflicts, more deaths from internal conflict and human rights abuses.

Western Europe continues to be the most peaceful region, with the majority of the countries ranking in the top 20. All five Scandinavian nations rank in the top 10.

Iraq, Somalia and Afghanistan were the least peaceful countries for the second consecutive year.

Word on the street: Will you be cheering for anyone at the start of the World Cup?

Angela Dione
Calgary
A: What is the World Cup?

Ashkon Mohammadzadeh
Edmonton
A: I will be cheering for the Netherlands or England. I just love them. I like how the players are on the team ... I'm a huge soccer fan. I watch it all the time.

Zokpah Dahn
Halifax
A: I'd say Spain or Brazil. Spain has so many good players and one of the stronger leagues right now in Europe. I'm (also hoping) for a team from Africa to win. It's the first time for the World Cup in Africa.

Nicole Pontes
Ottawa
A: Portugal, because of my nationality. And Cristiano Ronaldo is pretty sexy.

Luya Tshimbalanga
Vancouver
A: I'd like to see an African team win this year, perhaps Cameroon. This is a good year (for Cameroon's team); they have a lot of potential. They may not make the final but I hope they do well. I also like Brazil.

Aisha Brown
Edmonton
A: I'll be cheering for France this year, because they are the best team ever. I like their strategies, the way they play and their good sportsmanship. They're just a good team altogether.

Innovation is the key to prosperity: Report

The Canadian government puts too much emphasis on invention, and not enough on innovation — even though the latter drives economic prosperity, according to a new report from a competitiveness think-tank.

"Our prosperity is the result of business innovation that adds value to our day-to-day lives."
Roger Martin, chair,
Institute for Competitiveness and Prosperity

Government policy tends to support inventions at the expense of improvements in existing products or processes that would provide value to consumers, says the provincially funded Institute for Competitiveness and Prosperity.

For instance, the latest federal budget increased funding for the research granting councils by $32 billion. Of this increase, $29 billion was directed to sciences and health research, and only $3 billion to social sciences and humanities, which would include business schools and executive management programs.

"We need science-based discovery as a foundation for innovation. But our prosperity is the result of business innovation that adds value to our day-to-day lives," said Roger Martin, chair of the institute.

The report argues against government cuts in education as a means to dealing with sky-high deficits. That was the approach Ottawa took in the mid-1990s, and it would be a mistake to do it again, the institute said.

Canada once invested in education at nearly the same per capita rate as the U.S., but has fallen behind by as much as 21 per cent.

"We must continue making investments in education to increase access for all Canadians to post secondary education, to raise the number of master's graduates, and to improve the classroom experience for students," the report said.

The institute is an independent, not-for-profit group established in 2001.

Construction slows as housing market cools off

HOUSING New home construction slowed in May as the number of startups last month fell below economists' expectations — the latest indicator that Canada's once white-hot housing market is cooling off.

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corp reported yesterday that the annual rate of housing starts dropped last month, pegging the rate at 189,100 units in May, down from a revised 201,800 in April.

Douglas Porter, deputy chief economist at the Bank of Montreal, said May's figures were below expectations but "hardly a shock."

"The surprise so far in 2010 had been how quickly starts had ramped up from their depressed levels a year ago," Porter wrote in a note yesterday.

"While the May level of starts is the lowest so far this year, it's still above where we see activity for all of 2010."

Economists have widely predicted a slowdown in the housing market in the second half of 2010.

Strasburg dazzles in debut

Over-hyped? Are you kidding? Stephen Strasburg went beyond the hype — and anyone's reasonable expectations — by striking out 14 batters in his electric major league debut. With a standing-room-only crowd cheering every pitch, the Washington Nationals phenom put on a dazzling display of pitching power last night in a 5-2 win over Pittsburgh. His fastballs reached 100 m.p.h., and the Pirates found his nasty curves nearly impossible to hit. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sports in brief

NBA Cavaliers owner Dan Gilbert refused to comment yesterday on reports he has offered a job to Michigan State's Tom Izzo and said superstar free agent LeBron James will not be consulted during the team's search for a new coach. Speaking at a news conference, Gilbert strongly refuted theories that James has had input on previous hires, the firing of coach Mike Brown and general manager Danny Ferry's recent departure.

NHL Scott Arniel is the new head coach of the Columbus Blue Jackets. The 47-year-old was the head coach of the Manitoba Moose of the American Hockey League for the past four seasons.

CFL Tickets for the 98th Grey Cup game in Edmonton this fall have sold out just one week after they went on sale. The CFL championship is being played Nov. 28 at Commonwealth Stadium, which seats more than 60,000. It's believed to be the fastest and earliest sellout of Grey Cup tickets on record.

HOCKEY Bodychecking more than triples the risk of injury and concussion in peewee hockey, according to a study conducted by the University of Calgary. Researchers compared rates of injury between peewee teams in Alberta and Quebec. Bodychecking is allowed at the peewee level in Alberta but not in Quebec.

TENNIS Andy Roddick began the chase for his fifth title at Queen's Club with a clinical 6-2, 6-1 defeat of Russian Igor Kunitsyn yesterday, joining defending champion Andy Murray in the third round.

Pronger not worried about past

With ugly game behind him, veteran says he's focused on Game 6

Chris Pronger wore his usual relaxed manner and impish grin when he faced the media yesterday, as though the ugly numbers he put up in Game 5 of the Stanley Cup final never happened.

The Flyers defenceman was probably right to insist he didn't play that badly, despite going minus-5 and being on the ice for six of the Chicago Blackhawks' seven goals in a 7-4 victory that put the Flyers on the brink of elimination. On the other goal, he was in the penalty box.

One went in off his leg, another was blocked by his leg but went right to an opponent for a pass and a goal, another saw goalie Michael Leighton beat on a long shot that no defenceman could prevent.

So instead of dwelling on it, he's looking for the entire Philadelphia team to bounce back with a strong effort at home in Game 6 tonight (CBC, 6 p.m.) to try to force a decisive seventh game in Chicago two nights later.

The Blackhawks lead the best-of-seven series 3-2.

"I've already started to focus on Game 6 and I'm not really worried about it," Pronger said of the Game 5 debacle, in which the speedy Blackhawks skated rings around the Flyers through the first period, then got timely goals as Philadelphia battled back.

"I don't know if you've watched much of the video but I have. There's not a whole lot you can do when a puck bounces off your shin pad and goes in the net — a couple of times. So I'm not worried. It could easily have gone the other way."

It usually does in Philadelphia, where the Flyers are 9-1 in the postseason.

White-gloved NHL officials will have the Cup in the Wachovia Centre ready to be presented to the Blackhawks if they win. That's motivation enough for the 35-year-old Pronger.

"I think we know what we're up against," he said. "They're trying to close us out and we're trying to get to a Game 7.

"Everyone in the locker-room understands what's at stake and what we need to do." THE CANADIAN PRESS

LAKERS VS

NBA Kobe Bryant scored 29 points and Derek Fisher added 16 to lead Los Angeles to a 91-84 victory over the Boston Celtics last night and give the Lakers a 2-1 lead in the NBA finals.

Bryant had 25 points after three but did not score for the first 10 minutes of the fourth quarter. That's when Fisher took over, adding four key baskets after Boston winnowed a 17-point first-half lead to one point.

The Lakers regained home-court advantage they had lost when Boston took Game 2 in Los Angeles.

Game 4 is tomorrow night in Boston.

Pau Gasol and Andrew Bynum had 10 rebounds apiece for Los Angeles.

Kevin Garnett, who had just six points in Boston's victory Sunday, had 25 in Game 3. But Ray Allen, who had 32 points in Game 2, missed all 13 field goal attempts — one shy of the NBA finals futility record.

The Celtics had high hopes after splitting the opening two games in Los Angeles, but the "Beat L.A.!" chants at the TD Garden couldn't help them overcome poor shooting.

Allen and Paul Pierce combined to go 1-for-3 from the field as Boston went nearly six minutes without a field goal in the first half.

Pierce finished with 15 points, including 3-for-4 from three-point range, but Allen never snapped out of it. Boston's Rajon Rondo, who had a triple-double in Game 3, finished with 11 points, eight assists and three rebounds. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Harness your star power

KEITH CARMAN
for Metro Canada

You're the new hotshot on the corporate block but nobody's heard of you? Maybe it's time to look at your promotional strategy.

Formulating a branding plan is the first rule of virtually every notable personality — from U.S. President Barack Obama to Ellen De Generes.

"The common thread of success among (celebrities) is the fame formula," notes Maggie Jessup, co-author of Fame 101, a book dedicated to professional success secrets. "They packaged their expertise into compelling personal brands, used Hollywood-level publicity to get visible and then promoted their brands to celebrity-hungry target communities."

Maggie and partner Jay Jessup know how celebrities become popular, rich and happy due to their experience in their own publicity/branding boutique, Platform Strategy. Everyone from start-up gurus and scientists to actors, authors, lawyers and royalty have utilized their services with great success.

Taking that experience to study the career models of 75 celebrities, the Jessups have boiled down branding's rudimentary aspects into Fame 101.

"People who promote and publicize their personal brand enjoy three strong benefits: Greater visibility, enhanced credibility and increased income," notes Jay, reiterating that victory relies on creating a familiar, friendly visage.

You can maintain publicity by being snappy and entertaining, write a book — "A successful book will change anyone's professional life overnight" — and speak publicly whenever possible in order to connect with large groups fast.

"Look around at the next big event you attend," he adds. "The big brands are onstage delivering a 20-minute talk. It could easily be you. Very visible people are simply more successful. Personal branding done well delivers increased credibility and that in turn gives you an edge in any professional activity. Great personal brands attract clients, win career opportunities and enjoy substantial financial rewards."

However, the Jessups declare that you need something to offer in the first place. Personal branding is about maximizing that potential. While success can be expedient, continued prosperity takes time and continued work, even after one begins to reap rewards. However, once you find your niche, you don't have to be the next Oprah Winfrey, Maggie points out, anyone can make personal branding profitable.

"A coffee shop waitress can become an immensely successful national brand using the fame formula; Suze Orman did. A recently divorced mother, barely getting by as a bank teller can quickly change her fortunes and join society's elite; Paula Deen did."

11 p.m. is no time to start your shift

Delaying the start time for an overnight shift could help late-night workers get more shut-eye off duty and feel less tired on the job, a new study suggests.

A research abstract presented yesterday at the annual meeting of Associated Professional Sleep Societies LLC in San Antonio, Texas, analyzed the effect shift start time had on workers' predicted total sleep time off-hours, as well as on fatigue during a shift.

"Our findings were in two arenas: How much sleep they were able to get, and how fatigued they were during the shift," said lead author Angela Bowen, a research assistant with the Sleep and Performance Research Center at Washington State University Spokane.

The study predicted the minimum fatigue at work took place during a shift starting at 9 a.m. The maximum on-the-job fatigue occurred with shifts starting at 11 p.m.

So why is it that someone clocking in at 11 p.m. is at a potential disadvantage compared to someone starting at midnight? Simply put, they're not getting enough pre-shift sleep.

"Most people can fall asleep really easily between about midnight and 6 a.m.," Bowen said.

The time period between 5 p.m. and 10 p.m. is the opposite, so you cannot receive a much pre-work sleep. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Crossing Kenya's open plains

Masai Mara's unique wildlife reserve arguably Africa's finest

NICK BOULOS
Metro World News

Of all the places to stop, this was surely the least sensible.

Climbing out of our open-sided jeep as the whispery blades of grass of the Masai Mara crunched under foot and with nobody but my guide Charles in sight, I suddenly felt rather apprehensive.

Very apprehensive, in fact.

This was, after all, lion country. And buffalo country. And let's not forget the rest of the Big Five that call these marshlands home: leopards, elephants and rhinos. They — as well as countless other creatures — roam this 1510sq km protected reserve freely.

I had already become well accustomed to chancing upon a pride of lions in the most unlikely of places during our thrilling game drives, so I was understandably worried about my surroundings and what might be lurking nearby.

"Are you sure it's safe to just roam around like this?" I asked Charles as he fetched a hamper from the back of our jeep parked under the only tree to be found anywhere in sight.

He nodded reassuringly, but somewhat contradicted himself by casually mentioning that the tree under which we were standing is the official residence of the area's leopard.

I glanced skyward to see the stripped pelt of a gazelle lying on a branch and deep claw marks etched into the trunk. Sitting discarded on the parched ground was the chalk-white skull of a zebra.

Roam this protected reserve

The Mara spread out before us silently. Zebras and waterbucks grazed just yards away as the sun dipped beneath the hills in the far distance.

Thousands flock to the Masai Mara — arguably Africa's most famous wildlife reserve, an hour's flight from Nairobi — to catch a glimpse of the zebra and wildebeest migration. In July, millions of the animals risk death by crossing the murky, crocodile-infested Mara River to reach the Serengeti in Tanzania.

But travel at the right time and you'll have this entire wilderness to yourself. Or so it feels.

In October, for example, the bumpy tracks that criss-cross the Mara are blissfully devoid of other jeeps.

The next day, we chanced upon a cheetah feasting on a recent kill, a scared male lion stalking a wildebeest and a herd of elephants making slow progress across the horizon. Lady Luck was shining upon us as we tracked down Olive the leopard just hours before I was due to leave.

Lounging majestically across a high branch and well camouflaged, her piercing amber eyes stared down at us intently.

I could've sat there all day studying her majestic coat and twitching tail. And reassuringly, it was a different tree from the one we stopped at just a few hours before.

London life won't come cheap

PAUL BALDWIN
Metro World News

There are so many must-do's in this city it's hard to know where to start.

Here's a warp-speed guide: Tower of London — beautiful-looking but a bit dull inside, Buckingham Palace — fascinating and hey, the Queen lives here, British Museum — one of the world's best, but don't expect to find anything British inside, Big Ben — a no-brainer London vacation photo, Greenwich — you'll feel an irrepressible urge to stand astride the Greenwich Meridian, Natural History, Science Museums — possibly the greatest free attractions on the planet. and a Thames riverboat trip — great value, informative and usually a load of laughs.

Oh, and they have pubs. Lots of pubs.

I'VE BEEN BEFORE — WHAT'S NEW?

What could be more British than Tea at The Ritz?

This piano-accompanied ritual, in the quintessential elegance of the most famous hotel in town, is nothing less than an institution.

It's so popular that you must book at least one month in advance. Afterwards wander down to another British institution Fortnum & Mason's in Piccadilly to slaver over one of the most extensive and delicious ranges of food on earth. In both cases you'll probably end up hitting the credit card hard — quality doesn't come cheap in London.

WHAT'S THE NIGHTLIFE LIKE?

Legendary. Too many clubs to list but don't miss Fabric in Clerkenwell for hardcore house, Koko in Camden for gigs and big DJ's, Punk in Soho for, er, everything and Floridita, in Wardour Street, for a night of very 'in' Latin dancing.

Catch a glimpse of super-rich vacations

PAUL BALDWIN
Metro World News

If you really want to see the world then you may as well do it in the penthouse suite on one of the world's finest passenger vessels complete with your own personal butler. A snip at $216,000.

Or how about a week playing Pirates of the Caribbean on Johnny Depp's very own boat? Hell, make it a fortnight, it's a bargain at $170,000.

Bit pricey? If you're a billionaire feeling the pinch you could always downsize to week in Mick Jagger's villa in Mustique — a giveaway at $11,500.

They sound insane, but these are the jaw-dropping vacation options of the super-rich.

You don't like sailing? Then step forward Bruce Willis and illusionist David Copperfield.

Action flick hero Bruce has a $6,500-per-night five bed villa on the beautiful Parrot Cay, in Turks and Caicos, in the Caribbean — incidentally a big favourite of designer Donna Karan.

Copperfield goes one better. He has a whole bay named after him — naturally enough it's called Copperfield Bay and it's part of Musha Cay in the Bahamas.

The beachfront villas are described as "so private you'll seem to disappear." What will also disappear is any sense of reality as this luxury costs a staggering $30,000-per-day.

The Rocks Pub Tour is a good place to spend a jet-lagged evening

Recharge in Sydney

Spend a laid back day after stepping off that long plane ride

JESSICA CARLSON
Metro World News

Before you hit the beach or the outback, get the best of Sydney. In a day you'll easily see the opera house, the cute Aussie animals and much more. And where ever you go there's the best harbour view in the world.

Only have one day? Sydney is often the first, and possibly the best you see of Oz. Here's how I'd spend a jet lagged, laid back day.

WHERE TO WAKE UP

The Haven Inn
196 Glebe Point Rd,
haveninnsydney.com.au

At the Haven Inn, a three-star hotel with a pool, air conditioning and A location right where I want to be — in Glebe. This is a quietly fashionable inner city suburb with a warm and laid back atmosphere, where arty intellectual locals mix with backpackers.

WHERE TO SPEND THE MORNING

Circular Quay

Start with a healthy veggie breakfast at Iku Whole food (25a Glebe Point Rd.) and then hop on a bus down to Circular Quay. The city centre is compact and the historic quarters The Rocks, the stunning Opera house and the Royal Botanic Gardens are all within a comfortable stroll.

METRO WORLD NEWS

Touring Sydney Harbour is a relaxing way to introduce yourself to Australia.

WHERE TO LUNCH

The Shop on the Hop

I would get some take out food from The Shop on the Hop at Mrs Macquaries Point in the Royal Botanical gardens and munch on it in the shade of a gigantic tropical tree with the best harbour view in the world. I'd advise meat eaters to continue to the verandahs of the Botanic Gardens restaurant.

WHERE TO SPEND THE AFTERNOON

Taronga zoo
taronga.org.au

I'd get the ferry to Sydney's Taronga zoo. A zoo pass ($49.50, adult) includes return ferry ticket, zoo entry, bus transfer and sky safari. My apologies to fuzzy indigenous creatures, the highlight is the 3 p.m. daily Free Flight Bird Show with a stunning Sydney Harbour backdrop.

HOW TO SPEND THE NIGHT

The Rocks Pub Tour
therocks.com

With some luck I'll be back at Circular Quay for The Rocks Pub Tour, a way to learn more about Sydney's early days of convicts, whalers and sailors and wash it down with local brews like Tooheys (Australians don't drink Fosters at home).

WHERE TO HAVE DINNER

Zaffran
zasffran.com

Then it's off to the sparkling lights of Darling Harbour and divine Indian food at award winning Zaffran.

(Set menu: three courses, $31.50) Darling Harbour is Sydney's favourite dining, drinking and entertainment playground and a short cab ride back to Glebe.

Noise drifts away behind these headphones

Whether you're trying to drown out the sound of the rain battering your tent on a windswept moor or just trying to silence the baby in row 15 who's been screaming since take-off, a decent pair of headphones can be a traveller's best friend.

These are not really noise-cancelling headphones but they are just so stunningly good that they have to be in.

Swap the lame headphones bundled with your MP3 and you'll feel you've been listening to your favourite tracks through cotton wool. Buckets-full of thumping bass and spine-tingling detail together with super-exciting timing and dynamics make these headphones probably the best value piece of hi-fi available. A steal.

UNDER $100
Altec Lansing Backbeat Titanium
(Alteclansing.com)
Another pair of noise-isolators rather than noise-cancellers that turn in a fine sonic performance.

The four pairs of neoprene ear-tips include one with extra wide flange which helps block out the outside world. But the sound is the key here. The 10Hz — 20kHz frequency response really digs deep into those bass notes and the top end just sparkles. A top find.

UNDER $250
B & W P5
(bowers-wilkins.com)
The daddy of headphones for music on the move. The P5's are what all other headphones want to be when they grow up. Stylish, comfy, and leather-upholstered, these headphones are fairly substantial for travel but do fold flat and weigh only 195 grams. And the performance is immense.

No showy but tiring high end histrionics just the music as it was meant to be, balanced, dynamic, exciting, but above all natural. Every song will sound like a new track. Also perfectly suitable for your home hi-fi. METRO NEWS SERVICES

Battle the crowds, Florence is worth the wait.

Learn why Florence continues to flourish

ROMINA MCGUINNESS
Metro World News

This Italian gem is a chianti classic. Metro finds the places and spaces to visit.

IT'S MY FIRST TIME — WHAT SHOULD I DO?

Although most places are swarming with tourists, some are a must, no matter how long the ticket queue. Gape in awe at the genius that is Brunelleschi's Cathedral, 'Duomo' and then shuffle your way through the camera-clad crowd to Michelangelo's ethereal marble statue of the biblical hero 'David' and don't miss the Ponte Vecchio bridge.

I'VE BEEN BEFORE — WHAT SHOULD I TRY?

The Uffizi Gallery is one of the most important centres for Renaissance art with work by Raphael, Michelangelo and Titian. For sweeping views of the Arno Valley and dome-studded city head to the hilltops over at Piazzale Michelangelo.

WHERE CAN I SHOP?

Mercato Centrale (Via del Ariento) is paradise for foodies. Wonderful local produce including balsamic vinegar, olive oil, and cheese is magnificently stacked at each stall. If you want to get serious head to Via Turnabuoni for classic Italian labels such as Prada, Pucci and Gucci.

WHAT'S THE NIGHTLIFE LIKE?

Fabio Picchi's Teatro del Sale is an eclectic combination of theatre, trattoria and member's clubs is a great place to spend the night. On stage, you might find yourself listening to a poetry reading, musical or piano set.

NEIL MOORE
for Metro Canada

2010 Toyota Highlander Hybrid

Type: mid-size SUV
Price: base $43,025
Engine: DOHC 3.3 Litre DOHC, 24-Valve V6
Fuel Economy: 7.4/8.0/7.7 L/100 km (city/hwy/combined)

Highlights

- Accommodates up to seven passengers
- Upscale looks

It seems quite the contradiction — the hybrid SUV.

Hybrids — in general — are the darlings of the urban "greenie," along with cloth grocery bags, fair trade lattes and David Suzuki documentaries.

SUVs on the other hand are the flagships of suburban excess. When they're not taking the lone executive on his or her daily two-hour commute, these gas guzzlers are loaded up with kids' soccer teams or schlepping mass quantities of boxes and cans from the local Costco.

Can these two interests co-exist?

I'd say "yes" as many of the former eventually have kids and move out to the 'burbs. And besides, not all of us who have shunned downtown living hate the environment.

Still, there aren't many hybrid SUVs on the market. Among them are the behemoth Chevrolet Tahoe and GMC Yukon hybrids, the compact Ford Escape hybrid, the premium Lexus RX 450h (starting at just under $60K) and the even pricier (and less green) BMW ActiveHybrid X6, priced at just under $100K.

The Highlander Hybrid, starting at $43,025, is comparatively well priced, and for a mid-sized SUV, is surprisingly roomy and can realistically accommodate up to seven passengers.

Some have criticized its styling, calling it slab-sided and plain. I like its uncluttered sheet metal. And when decked out in Limited trim — as was my tester for the week — with its big 19-inch alloys and roof-mounted spoiler, the Highlander looks quite upscale.

Like all Highlanders, it is powered by 3.3 Litre DOHC, 24-Valve V6, working with high-torque electric motors front and rear. Combined, Toyota's Hybrid Synergy Drive delivers 270 hp across a broad power band and up to 212 lb/ft of torque. This is mated to a continuously variable transmission.

Despite its size, the Highlander launches quickly and enjoys a strong, linear flow of power. This hybrid is no wimp, but quickly loses the fuel-saving benefits of its green powerplant when you mash the pedal.

The Highlander Hybrid is less about compromise and more about delivering the benefits you'd expect from an SUV — with few of the downsides. And it shouldn't attract the scorn of your chardonnay-sipping downtown friends, who may even invite you to their own big-box shopping adventure.

Soldiers of fortune

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

Bradley Cooper readily admits his favourite part of making the big-screen adaptation of The A-Team was working with Liam Neeson. The Oscar-nominated actor, who plays team leader Hannibal opposite Cooper's Face, elevated the entire production, he insists.

The A-Team opens Friday

"You can't really argue with the talent and ability and experience, which is what he brought to the movie," Cooper says. "It's like if you step on a court with Michael Jordan, the court's going to feel different. He raised everyone's game."

But Neeson is quick to point out he had some learning to do himself, especially when it came to improvisation — something Cooper does a lot. One particular day of shooting comes to mind for Neeson: "This scene starts that's not on the page," he remembers. "Bradley starts this improv, and I'm going, 'What the hell is this? What is going on?' And then it would come to my line, and I'd forget my line because I was so busy watching Bradley and (director) Joe (Carnahan) getting off on each other. So it was terrifying, the first few days. I can't do that s—. I'm an old traditionalist. I like to learn my lines and deliver them."

Improvisation aside, Neeson speaks highly of the experience of making The A-Team — but he also admits there were drawbacks to working on such a big project. "It's a big studio movie, and of course there's a lot of studio input," Neeson says. "Every time we changed a semicolon, a comma, of course it had to be passed through the studio. That would get frustrating, personally speaking. Very frustrating."

For mixed martial arts fighter Quinton "Rampage" Jackson, stepping into the role of B.A. Baracus made famous by Mr. T was a point of honor more than anything else.

"There's no way I was going to come and try and outdo Mr. T," Jackson says. "I figured that if I just be myself and put myself in there, maybe the fans will accept me, because I'm such a big fan."

With The A-Team being Jackson's first major movie role, he could be excused for being a little nervous going up against the likes of Neeson and Cooper. But he managed to keep his cool, he insists — except once.

"My first scene working with Liam, when he carjacked me in the van, scared the living daylights out of me," Jackson says. "I'm from the hood. I've been shot at before, I've had a gun put to my head. But Liam scared the hell out of. He put this gun to my head, and I almost pissed myself."

Rounding out the team is South African actor Sharlto Copley, the breakout star of last year's District 9, who signed on to play loose-cannon pilot Murdoch. Possibly the biggest fan of the series in the cast, Copley found making The A-Team almost like a vacation. District 9 was very grueling, and the role was quite heavy at times emotionally. I found this actually very easy," he says, comparing the two films. "My part was the smallest of the four, so I had a lot of downtime in my trailer. I had lemurs visiting in my trailer, and had them turn it into a little petting zoo. I mean, these things you do on these big movies."

The Brothel Project

You may not think about the world's oldest profession the same way again after watching this documentary. It chronicles the efforts of activist and journalist Jody Paterson and retired sex worker Lauren Casey to challenge prevailing attitudes and laws and open a cooperative brothel — a safe workplace for those in Victoria's now-underground sex industry. They're joined by a working prostitute and a booking agent who share their vision. 10 PM on CICT

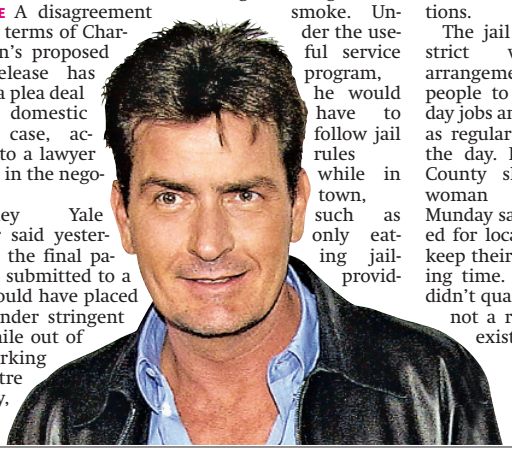
Small details hamper Charlie's plea bargain

WHILE EQUAL JUSTICE GOES UP IN SMOKE A disagreement over the terms of Charlie Sheen's proposed work release has held up a plea deal in the domestic dispute case, according to a lawyer involved in the negotiations.

Attorney Yale Galanter said yesterday that the final paperwork submitted to a judge would have placed Sheen under stringent rules while out of jail working at theatre company, including not being able to smoke. Under the useful service program, he would have to follow jail rules while in town, such as only eating jail-provided meals, or face sanctions.



The jail also offers less strict work release arrangements, allowing people to report to their day jobs and essentially act as regular citizens during the day. However, Pitkin County sheriff's spokeswoman Deputy Marie Munday said that's intended for locals who need to keep their jobs while serving time. She said Sheen didn't qualify because he's not a resident with an existing job.

TV star opens up about bisexuality

STANDING UP FOR THE RIGHTS OF VAMPIRES WORLDWIDE After sneaking the revelation that she is bisexual into a public service announcement in April, Anna Paquin is opening up about the issue. "It wasn't like it was a big secret. It was just a cause I cared about and privately supported but not one that I had ever had an opportunity to speak out about in a way that would be useful," she tells Zap2it. "Obviously, as someone who identifies as bisexual, those are issues I really care about. And frankly, I don't see why everyone doesn't care about them," she says of Cyndi Lauper's True Colors Fund, which lobbies for equal rights issues.

Metro Recipe of the Day

Tex-Mex Picadillo

INGREDIENTS:
500 g lean ground beef
2 cloves garlic, minced
540 ml can stewed tomatoes, undrained and cut up
1 medium-size apple, unpeeled and chopped
4 large green onions with tops, finely sliced
1/3 cup raisins
1/4 cup water
2 tbsp chopped pimento-stuffed green olives
1 tbsp minced pickled jalapeño
1 tbsp vinegar
1 tsp sugar
1/2 tsp celery seeds
1/2 tsp each ground cinnamon and ground cumin
1/4 tsp each salt and black pepper
1/8 tsp ground cloves

METHOD:
1. In skillet, cook ground beef and garlic over moderately high heat until meat is browned. Drain off fat.

2. Stir in tomatoes, apple, green onions, raisins, water, olives, jalapeño pepper, vinegar, sugar, celery seeds, cinnamon, cumin, salt, black pepper and cloves.

3. Bring to boil. Lower heat and simmer, covered, 20 minutes. Serve over hot cooked rice.

ARIES ♈
MARCH 21-APRIL 20
Today's cosmic picture promises a surprise of some sort, and while there is nothing to fear it might be wise to stay on good terms with family and friends.

TAURUS ♉
APRIL 21-MAY 21
You must stay impartial, no matter how committed you may be to a particular viewpoint or set of beliefs.

GEMINI ♊
MAY 22-JUNE 21
You would be wise not to believe everything you see and hear over the next 24 hours. Could it be that someone is trying to trick you?

CANCER ♋
JUNE 22-JULY 22
Why are some issues so hard to get your head around? Whatever the reason you will have to battle against chaos and confusion. It's a battle you can, and must, win.

LEO ♌
JULY 23-AUG 23
You are not responsible for other people's failings, nor should you help them too much. The last thing you want is for them to come to rely on you.

VIRGO ♍
AUG 24-SEPT 22
Set yourself targets you know you will be able to reach and allow yourself plenty of time to relax. And don't panic if you find yourself behind schedule.

LIBRA ♎
SEPT 23-OCT 23
Your latest idea may be a great one but a friend or colleague can see something about it that you have missed.

SCORPIO ♏
OCT 24-NOV 22
Why do so many people insist on seeing only the negative side of your proposals? Don't let it worry you. You'll make it happen, with or without them.

SAGITTARIUS ♐
NOV 23-DEC 21
It is impossible for even an astrologer to predict how a certain situation will work itself out, so err on the side of caution.

CAPRICORN ♑
DEC 22-JAN 20
You may not want to give someone a hard time over a mistake but if you let them get away with it they might make even bigger mistakes in the future.

AQUARIUS ♒
JAN 21-FEB 18
Do you stick with what you know and trust or do you strike out in a radical and original direction? It's all about new.

PISCES ♓
FEB 19-MARCH 20
You seem to be of the opinion that nothing can possibly go wrong in your life and you are probably right. But don't take anything for granted.

This day in history

1534: Jacques Cartier is the first European to discover the Saint Lawrence River.
1928: Charles Kingsford Smith completes the first trans-Pacific flight in a Fokker Trimotor monoplane, the Southern Cross.
1934: Donald Duck makes his debut in The Wise Little Hen.
1959: The USS George Washington is launched. It is the first submarine to carry ballistic missiles.
1993: The Minnesota North Stars were relocated to Dallas, and were renamed the Dallas Stars.
